LONDON, May 26-4.31 P. M.-A despatch to the Central News any day next week at The World Office. Park Row: The World Uptown Office. I imitators. from Tokio says the Japanese have stormed and captured the town of Kinchou, about thirty-two miles north of Port Arthur.

7.07 P. M .- The correspondent of the Central News at Tokio cables that the Japanese attacked Nanqwanling, on the narrowest part of the Kwantung peninsula, yesterday, and drove back the Russians by main force. The attack on Kinchou, the despatch adds, began at dawn to-day and by noon Kinchou was in the hands of the Japanese. who occupied the castle. The fighting continued during the afternoon and was of the most desperate character. It is believed that casualties were heavy.

This is the port on the Liaotung Peninsula, at its narrowest point, where, according to persistent rumors for several days past, there has been heavy and disastrous fighting. A despatch from Mukden yesterday told of a bloody battle having taken place there, in which the Japanese were defeated with severe losses. All reports agree that the Japanese have been advancing along the railroad from Port Adams.

While this advance is being made from Port Adams by several columns of the Japanese, the main body of the army is said to be at Fengwangcheng. From Tokio comes the report that more than 20,000 Russians are concentrated between Fengwangcheng and Liaoyang. The correspondent says that the Russians are prepared to make a stubborn resistance.

WOMEN MOBBED THE MOTORMAN

Garrity, Whose Car Had Run Over and Killed Little Roy O'Donnell, Attacked and Badly Beaten by Eye-Witnesses.

Three-year-old Roy O'Donnell, of No 194 East One Hundred and Forty-eighth street, was crushed to death beneath a Morris avenue car this afternoon. The oy's mother saw him fall under the wheels of the car, where he was planed for ten minutes before the wheels were lifted from his mangled body. A mob of women who surrounded the car fell upon the motorman and beat him furi

Roy was a pupil in the kindergarten f the American Female Guardian Soiety, at No. 523 Morris avenue, diag nally across the street from his home When Miss Lawson, the teacher of the kindergarten, dismissed the children to day she stood on the steps of the so iery building and cautioned them to be careful in crossing the street. Mrs. O'Donnell stood in the window of he ome, looking out for Roy, who is her According to several women who saw the accident, John Garrity, the motorman, did not put on the brakes uni Even when he saw the little body a few feet from the fender he did not seen to the frantic hystanders to exert him self to stop his car, and when he did self to stop his car, and when he did clinch the brakes the front wheels had passed over the little form.

All this time the mother had stood as if transfixed, in the window. When she heard the screams of her boy as the wheels turned upon his body she fell fainting to the floor and did not vecover consciousness for an hour. There were many other mothers in the neighborhood who had also witnessed the accident or heard the cries of the child under the car.

These women rushed into the street fearing that it might be one of their little ones. When they saw the crushed and bruised little body pinned under the wheels and the motorman standing pale and helpless on the platform, they broke into a dury of exclamations and abuse, seized him by his clothing, dragged him from his car, kicking, scratching and beating him with their hands and feet.

Several men who were passing, and who could still hear the groans of the child, endenvored to raise the car from the body. Jacks were brought from a neighboring factory, but it was fully ten minutes before the child's body was released from under the wheels.

All the time the men were struggling to lift the car, an ever-increasing throng of women were directing their indignation against motorman Garrity, who was only saved from serious injuny by the intervention of Po-
